

The law was passed to protect the rights of the people. Our government was formed to serve the needs and wants of it's people, not the money of the rich and powerful. Continuous phone calls from sales companies is a form of harassment. Citizens, who individually expressed their request not to be contacted by any company trying to sell products or services for a set period of time, must have their request for privacy enforced fully.